

Society for Risk Analysis

Dear Mr. Schultz:

The events of 11 September in the United States have raised the importance of risk analysis throughout the world. As a member of the Society for Risk Analysis, you have an important role in advancing the intellectual basis and the application of risk analysis worldwide.

Our membership has grown ten-fold since the Society's founding in 1980 and now includes professionals from many disciplines, including natural and life sciences, engineering, social sciences, law, and policy analysis. This breadth provides an environment for significant cross-disciplinary dialogue, research, and application. SRA meetings, workshops, symposia, journal, web site (www.sra.org), and newsletter provide opportunities for interaction among these many risk-related disciplines as well as information on the latest developments in risk analysis.

Your membership offers many benefits, including the following:

- Subscription to the journal Risk Analysis and to Risk Newsletter.
- Significantly discounted registration fees for the US annual meeting.
- Significantly discounted registration fees for the annual meetings held by the Society's international sections.
- Publisher discounts to several other risk journals.
- A copy of the Membership Directory
- Opportunities to be on Society committees and to be a candidate for Society offices.

I urge you to continue your membership and to give the incoming president, Dr. Robin Cantor, support as she guides SRA next year.

Sincerely,

John F. Aheame
President (2001)
